

CODE of ETHICS
(Business Philosophy)

We provide an essential service to the community and conduct business based on Biblical principles, honesty, integrity, and professional objectivity.

As a link between lenders, borrowers, and sellers, we are committed to maintain due care in the handling of all records, and shall never disclose confidential information without authorization.

We observe the highest technical standards, while continually striving to improve competence and the quality of our services.

We are free of conflicts of interest and shall never knowingly misrepresent facts to clients or the public.

We shall clearly and fully disclose all fees and costs prior to providing services, and shall only perform and charge for those services which we have been authorized by our clients to perform on their behalf.
